Court Orders NAACP Suit Be Reconsidered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court by a 6-3 vote has directed a special three-judge court at Little Rock to take another look at a suit challenging constitutionality of the Arkansas laws aimed at the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The high court's action seemed to have the implication the lower court might find it should act on the suit without waiting for state courts to rule on the laws.

The three-judge federal court had taken a stand it would be "more wholesome and more logical" to let state courts rule first on validity of the laws.

NAACP in an appeal to the Supreme Court had asked that the special court be ordered to rule at once on the association's attack on the laws, without awaiting state court interpretation of the statutes.

The Supreme Court in a brief order told the special court to reconsider the NAACP suit. The court said further that federal trial courts should not "automatically" refer to state courts cases challenging state laws as violative of the U.S. Constitution.

At the same time, the Supreme Court's order cited a June 8 opinion in which it told a three-judge federal court in Richmond that Virginia state courts should rule first on constitutionality of three so-called Virginia "anti-NAACP" laws.

The June 8 opinion said the Virginia state courts might construe the Virginia laws in a way that would avoid the necessity for federal constitutional adjudication. It said a study of the terms of the three laws left reasonable room for such an interpretation by Virginia courts. At another point the opinion said federal courts should not rule on state laws "fairly open" to interpretation until state courts had passed on them.

Yesterday's order in the Arkansas case indicated, however, that the Supreme Court felt there may not be in this instance the "reasonable room" referred to in the June 8 opinion.

Chief Justice Warren and Justices Douglas and Brennan dissented from yesterday's order. They said they believed the Supreme Court should have directed the District Court to decide at once the constitutional points raised by the NAACP, instead of merely telling it to reconsider the case.

Douglas dissented from the June 8 opinion.

Bulletin

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The Nebraska Supreme Court today set June 25 as the new execution date for convicted killer Charles Starkweather.

The action came less than a day after the U. S. Supreme Court turned down his bid for a review of his case.

The new execution date is the fifth set.

Starkweather, still whiling away his time with painting, remains hopeful that he will get a review of his case.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today completed congressional action on a compromise $1,375,000 housing bill and sent it to and uncertain fate at the hands of President Eisenhower.

Even before the House acted, Maurice H. Stans, director of the budget bureau, said he would recommend that the President veto the bill.

Vote Probers Return to Washington

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four members of a House Elections subcommittee investigating last November's alleged fraud election flew back to Washington today.

Members of their staff continued the checking of Pulaski County ballots in the absence of the congressmen.

The subcommittee members arrived here Sunday and yesterday began their inquiry into the defeat of veteran Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) in Arkansas' 11th District by write-in candidate Dale Alford (D-Ark).

They started an examination of ballots in Pulaski County and said they would make a similar survey of ballots in the district's other five counties later.

Asked if the subcommittee found any irregularities, Chairman Robert T. Ashmore (D-SO) replied "a fairly large number but about the normal number you would expect in almost any election case."

He did not elaborate on what type of irregularities were found. Ashmore said the subcommittee was going back to Washington to vote on two important bills: A housing measure and a "states rights" measure to curb authority of the United States Supreme Court in some cases.

He said at least one member of the subcommittee would return to Little Rock in a "day or two."

Ashmore said the subcommittee would look into all alleged irregularities. These include charges by John F. Walls of Little Rock that Democratic Party leaders abandoned Hays, the Democratic nominee, to support Alford; that in some precincts more votes were recorded than there were persons who voted; that Alford pasted-in circulars were distributed illegally; and that an unsigned campaign circular was distributed. He said all ballots about which there was any question would be examined.

The chairman said the subcommittee had not decided whether to hold any public hearings.

Long Turns to Courts to Gain His Freedom

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long, still fighting confinement in a mental institution, turned to the courts again Monday night to plead for freedom.

The hot-tempered chief executive seeks his release on grounds he is sane and was committed through fraud. It is his second court bid in less than a month to get back to state power.

Through counsel, the 63-year-old governor asked the state's 22nd Judicial Court to approve his petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Robert Jones responded by setting a hearing for 10 a. m. Friday.

Attorney Joe Arthur Sims based his petition for the writ on grounds the papers committing Long to the Southeast Louisiana (mental) Hospital at Mandeville, La., were not filled out properly and that even if they were, the commitment order was obtained through fraud.

Sims also contended Long has never been mentally ill, and even if he has, he has completely recovered.

A reliable source said a comprehensive diagnosis of the governor's physical and mental condition would be ready for presentation before Judge Jones Friday.

Dr. Chester Williams, East Baton Rouge Parish (county) coroner, said Thursday Gov. Long suffered from paranoid schizophrenia—delusions of persecution.

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Claiming fraud and his own sanity, Gov. Earl K. Long of Louisiana went to court Monday night in the effort to free himself from a mental hospital—his second such attempt in 25 days.

Through counsel, the 63-year-old governor asked the state's 22nd Judicial Court to approve his petition for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Robert Jones responded by setting a hearing for 10 a. m. Friday.

If they were, the commitment order was obtained through fraud. Sims also contended Long has never been mentally ill, and even if he has, he has completely recovered.

A reliable source said a comprehensive diagnosis of the governor's physical and mental condition would be ready for presentation before Judge Jones Friday.

Dr. Chester Williams, East Baton Rouge Parish (county) coroner, said Thursday Gov. Long suffered from paranoid schizophrenia—delusions of persecution.

The filing of the application eliminated a day of confusion over who would—or could—occupy the vacant governor's chair.

Atty. General Jack Greenmill issued a 1,300-word opinion saying Lt. Gov. Lethem Frazier had to assume the post of acting governor.

But the 54-year-old Frazier ignored the opinion, contending he was only the lieutenant governor.

That left the state leaderless, a handicap it has operated under for nearly a month.

Frazier's reluctance was due in part to a challenge from Secretary of State Wade O. Martin Jr., who said he would recognize no one but Long as governor. However, Martin relented later and said he would accept Frazier as acting governor.

Long won a petition for a writ of habeas corpus hearing in Galveston, Tex., June 15, claiming he was removed from his mansion at Baton Rouge to a psychiatric clinic at John Seely Hospital at Galveston by force.

Before Texas District Judge L. D. Godard had an opportunity to rule, Long agreed to voluntary treatment at a New Orleans hospital and returned home from Galveston last Wednesday.

But Long skipped out of Ochsner Foundation Hospital and headed for Baton Rouge. He was intercepted as he sped toward the state capital, examined by two doctors and confined to the hospital at Mandeville by Judge Fred LeBlanc.

As in the case at Galveston, the governor's wife signed the application asking his commitment.

Johnson Asks Cooperation of President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson invited President Eisenhower today to cooperate with the Democratic Congress on a "program of achievement."

Johnson told reporters that as far as he is concerned Democrats in Congress are going to offer their cooperation to the President in getting a legislative program passed "and we hope he does too."

"If we have a choice between political issues and achievement, we will choose achievement," the Texas senator said. "We are not going to indulge in a lot of political ballyhoo. We will stay here until we get the job done."

Johnson spoke out in a crossfire of criticism by some Democratic liberals of his policy of trimming back spending bills to avoid presidential vetoes and of charges by Republicans that he is not going far enough in that endeavor.

Marilyn Monroe Undergoes Surgery

NEW YORK (AP)—Film star Marilyn Monroe underwent gynecological surgery today at Lenox Hill Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said her condition was excellent.

Miss Monroe is the wife of playwright Arthur Miller.

There was no immediate further explanation of the surgery.

The actress has twice experienced miscarriages. On Aug. 1, 1957 she underwent surgery at Doctors Hospital here following a month's pregnancy. She lost a second unborn child Dec. 17, 1958, while at work on a movie in California.

Asks Conviction Be Reversed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Curtis John Downs, 34, yesterday asked the Arkansas Supreme Court to reverse his conviction and sentence of 18 years for robbery of a Lake City bank.

Downs was arrested about two hours after the Sept. 5, 1958, hold-up of the Farmers State Bank of Lake City, in which $14,841 was taken. Police said the money was found in the car Downs was driving.

one can do except sweat. The 100-foot-long, one-story concrete wing is divided into three cellblocks and is separated from the rest of the center by a barred door.

First indication of the riot came when a guard peered through that door in a routine check just before "lights out."

The guard told Dr. Settle he saw inmates milling in the long corridor. The five guards in the wing were stripped to their shorts. Some inmates were wearing the officers' uniforms. An inmate was holding a knife against the back of a guard.

The hostages are William L. Fitch, Leonard Appleby, Melvin C. Jung, Robert D. Rosenthal and Charles R. Allen, all of Springfield.

As soon as escape routes through the main door and the steel-barred windows were blocked, the staff settled down to waiting.

The medical center is a general hospital for the government's prison system.

Its population has included some of the nation's most notorious criminals, including Al Capone and other gang leaders of the 30s.

Opening day testimony yesterday centered on the locking of the boys in the dormitory at the Boys Industrial School at Wrightsville and on what witnesses termed inadequate fire protection there.

The Commission first heard a test case which had been planned to determine whether the state was liable for the deaths, then started hearing individual claims.

The test case was that of 13-year-old William Piggee of De Witt, one of the 21 victims in the March 5 fire.

A ruling of liability was not handed down yesterday, and Chairman David L. Ford of Fort Smith said one would not be until the entire case was concluded.

After Lee Austin, 36, a school employee, testified to locking the boys in the dormitory the night of March 4, Little Rock Fire Capt.

8 decision, delivering an opinion in which he said that referring such cases to state courts was a "delaying tactic."

Douglas said in his dissent that "we need not—we should not—give deference to a state policy that seeks to undermine paramount federal law." Warren and Brennan said they agreed with the Douglas dissenting opinion.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal court at Little Rock has been ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court to reconsider a suit against four Arkansas laws.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, which filed the suit, said the laws were designed to ban its activities in Arkansas. It asked a three-judge federal court at Little Rock to rule them unconstitutional, but the court said it should not act until Arkansas state courts had interpreted the laws.

The NAACP then appealed to the Supreme Court.

The laws, all drawn by Attorney General Bruce Bennett of Arkansas, require the NAACP to file membership lists in the offices of county clerks, upon request of county judges; empower the attorney general and police to visit NAACP offices to secure information as to possible evasion of tax laws; define the crime of barratry as acts stirring up law suits; make it a crime for any organization to give money or other assistance as an inducement to any person to sue in state or federal courts.

In a brief order, with three justices dissenting, the Supreme Court told the lower court to reconsider the case in light of the Supreme Court's June 8 ruling in a case involving three voting rights laws.

But the high court voted yesterday in its order that when validity of a state law is challenged on to state courts for construction of the statute "should not automatically be made."

Chaplain W. L. Hinds of the United States Army at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., brother-in-law of the bride, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Miss Claudia Stewart of Houston, Tex., cousin of the bride, was the vocal soloist and was accompanied by Mrs. Moss Rowe of Washington who also provided the other nuptial music. The candles were lighted by Paul Stewart of Houston, Tex., cousin of the bride, and Perry Purdie of Hope.

Wilson Stewart of Shreveport, La. uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage. She was lovely in a floor length dress of tulle and lace over taffeta. The full skirt swept into a short train. The fitted lace bodice was trimmed with pearls and rhinestones, and with the short sleeved wedding gown, the bride wore matching gloves. Her finger-tip veil fell from a pearl tiara. A pearl and cameo necklace which is a family heirloom was worn by the bride, and to complete her traditional attire she had an English six-pence in her shoe. The bridal bouquet of white carnations centered with a white orchid was pinned to a white Bible.

Ivy entwined the altar which was also decorated with baskets of white stocks and candelabra holding white tapers. Miss Mary Ruth Calhoun of Washington was the bride's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Cherry Eiler of Washington, and Misses Brenda Hamm, Elaine Thomason, and Ann Cole, all of Hope. The attendants were all dressed in gowns of aqua polished cotton fashioned with a full skirt and a fitted bodice. They each had a matching bandeau and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

His father served the groom as best man. Groomsman and ushers were Wallace Martin, Cary Castle, Henry Cox, and Buddy Ball.

all of Hope. Ivy and colorful garden flowers decorated the old state capitol, where a reception was held following the ceremony. Presiding at the bride's table were her aunt, Mrs. Fred Norwood, and Mrs. J. M. May, both of Washington. The bridesmaids assisted in serving the punch and wedding cake, and Miss Sue Moore of Hope had charge of the guest book.

Guests from Hope were Mrs. H. Stewart, grandmother of the bride, Mrs. J. H. Pickard, grandmother of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. PSC to Study Phone Rate Hike

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A $47,942 a year rate increase request by United Telephone Co. of Alma was taken under study yesterday by the Arkansas Public Service Commission.

United said the best needed to finance a $1,005,496 program to convert to dial service in the next three years. The proposed business telephone rate would go up 50 cents to $1 and residential rates would rise 60 cents.

The city of Trumann has officially protested the increase as excessive. Other cities served by United are Bay, Black Oak, Caraway, Clarendon, Holly Grove, Lake City, Leachville, Manila, Monette, and Sliam Springs. United last week received PSC approval of purchase of telephone services at Charleston, Greenwood, Hackett and Midland.

PSC staff members said the firm needed only about $37,000 a year more to earn a 4% return. The PSC approved a $176,040 expansion program by Arkansas Western Gas Co. of Fayetteville.

How to Teach a Teacher How to Teach

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—How should you teach a teacher how to teach?

That thorny problem, one of the most troublesome in American education, will be tackled in a unique four-day conference on teacher education opening here tonight. The day's first educational sessions will select a middle ground of agreement on a program of teacher education.

Represented will be such organizations as the National Education Assn., the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, the American Assn. of Colleges for Teacher Education, the American Council of Learned Societies, and the National Academy of Science. The problem has evolved into a question of methods versus subject matter. How much of a student's time should be spent on learning how to teach, and how much on the field in which he will be teaching?

In a preliminary meeting Monday, a national teaching organization called for a comprehensive research program to set national standards for competent teachers. The chairman of state organizations on Teacher Education and Professional Standards said the study would help determine how to recruit and train good teachers, and how to weed out the incompetent.

Takes Secret of Meet to Grave

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP)—Only four Appalachian delegates gathered today as Joseph Barbara Sr. arrived to the grave his secrets about the gangland convention at his home Nov. 14, 1957.

After Roman Catholic services, Barbara was buried in a hillside cemetery 14 miles from the site of the 1955 massacre that shot him into the spotlight of police investigators across the country.

The four delegates on hand today all live in this area. None has been an underworld bigshot. They were: Emmanuel Zicari, a shoe worker, who served as a pull-bearer; Anthony J. Guarneri, a dress manufacturer; Pasquale Turriano, a grocer, and Bartolo Guccia, a fish-peddler.

The 53-year-old Barbara died last Wednesday night of a heart ailment—a condition that prevented investigators from ever asking him the reason for the meeting of 60 hoodlums and friends at his mansion in Appalachia.

Many of the delegates have been questioned but none has revealed the purpose of the gathering, described by investigators as a meeting of the underworld Mafia to discuss various rackets.

Water Waist Deep in Fort Worth Area

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Today Firemen began evacuating residents in the Westside Acres area.

The Weather Bureau said there would be a sharp rise on the Trinity River from Fort Worth to Dallas during the next 24 hours. A crest of 26 feet was expected Tuesday at Dallas.

DOROTHY DIX

Easy-to-Use Prescription Will Improve Circulation

Dear Dorothy Dix: My steady is only a year older than I. I am but he acts very young for his age. We have been going together for over a year and I have found out that he goes with other girls and even attends parties without me. If he calls and I'm not home, he accuses me of going out with other boys. I don't, although I've had several requests for dates. My parents are getting fed up with him and want me to break up. I admit this is the sound thing to do but I have a problem. If a summer and I break up now, how will I get back into circulation before school starts—Gloria.

Dear Gloria: This is a one-sided arrangement and not very fair to you. Don't be stuck with it. Have a showdown and tell the boy that since he's dating other girls, you feel free to go out with other boys. You say you've been asked out by other boys, so why worry about summer? You'll do all right.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is a 17-year-old boy necessarily a dead duck, socially, because he doesn't drink or smoke? All my friends do these things and, because I don't, they won't have anything to do with me—Dorcas.

Dear Boy: If a 17-year-old boy does drink and smoke, he may be just about dead before he's old enough to enjoy life. Find a group of 17-year-olds who act their age and you'll have friends.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is there anything wrong in sitting out front and talking to a boy friend when you come home from a date? Our parents object to this. If they wait, let us sit out front and talk; we may go somewhere else where we won't be bothered—Lynn.

Dear Lynn: By "talking" do you mean conversation—or other things? It isn't where you are but how you behave that measures the propriety of an action. Why can't you go in the house and finish your gabfest in the living room?

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper.

Mantle's Heavy Bat Takes the Yanks to Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron are beginning to look like Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron again for the New York's defending World Champion Yankees. But who would ever recognize Bob Turley?

The big right-hander, last year's top pitcher in the majors and the American League's top winner with a 21-7 record, failed to last again Monday night, almost blowing a five-run lead as Mantle and Skowron powered the Yankees to an 11-8 victory at six runs with his 16th and 17th homers and a triple. Skowron belted home a pair with his 14th homer. But it was Bobby Shantz, the stubby southpaw, who kept the A's from keeping pace, gaining a 2-2 record with five innings of two-hit, shutout relief.

Turley, who has won but six while losing seven, matching his losses of last season, gave up five consecutive hits and four runs as the A's cut the Yankees' lead, in 7-9 in the fifth inning before Shantz hurried in.

It was the only game scheduled after the All-Star break, the fifth-place champs within three games of first and within a half game of Baltimore and Detroit, tied for third.

In the only National League game, scheduled second place San Francisco beat Pittsburgh 4-1, moving within a single game of idle Milwaukee, and Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 6-2. Dodger left-hander Sandy Koufax set a major league record for a night game by striking out 16.

Mantle and Skowron drove in five of the first seven Yankee runs. The Mick got his first with the bases empty in the first inning off loser Ray Herbert (4-7). Then, after Skowron's blast in the fourth inning, Mantle chased the A's right-hander with a two-run triple as the Yankees scored four in the fifth. His other home run, with one on, was a shot over the fence in deep right-center off ex-Yankee right-hander Tom Sturdivant in the seventh inning.

Expects Anything From Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviets can be expected to strike with poison gases and germs if war comes, Congress was told today.

Major Gen. Marshall Stubbs, the Army's chief chemical officer, said the Soviets are known to be intensively conducting research and development in chemical and biological warfare and to have a number of chemical agent production plants.

He said what is known of the Soviet material and of training methods indicate they both are of excellent quality.

Stubbs' testimony was prepared for a closed-door meeting of the House Space Committee.

Pleads Guilty to Reckless Driving

PERRY, Okla. (AP)—Billy J. Hudson, 22, Harrison, Ark., arrested after a 105 m.p.h. auto chase, today pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $200.

Hudson, arrested last week along with Richard Corley, 25, Pawnee, Okla., was to be arraigned here later today on a charge of resisting arrest.

The Highway Patrol nabbed the pair after shooting the tires of the car. Corley, slightly wounded in the neck, was released from a hospital. He was charged with public drunkenness.

Holds Up Sentence of Bank Robber

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP)—Circuit Judge Andrew Ponder today deferred sentencing of convicted bank robber James T. Gibson and ordered him to State Hospital for further mental examination.

A jury last week found the 33-year-old Gibson guilty of robbing the First National Bank of Tucker man of a soon-recovered $2,900 last February.

The jury recommended a four-year sentence but also suggested that Gibson, a Jonesboro resident, be given further sanity tests.

Ponder's action was in line with the jury recommendation.

Matter of FACT

Animals native to the Hawaiian Islands are rare. Only one, a small bat, is definitely known to be native. The ancient Hawaiians introduced dogs, hogs and perhaps rats and mice. Sheep, goats, cattle, horses and other animals were brought in after the islands were discovered by Europeans. There are hundreds of bird species, some of which are found only on the islands.

Ike's Chief Assails Housing Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's housing chief today assailed the compromise housing bill as a costly measure voted with "bonuses for the big people."

Federal Housing Administrator Norman P. Mason so described the $1,375,000,000 measure in a letter to the Senate Republican leader, Sen. Everett N. Dirksen of Illinois.

The Senate Democratic leader, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said today the measure, trimmed to avoid a presidential veto still represents "a forward-looking piece of legislation."

Mason's letter said the bill was not in the best interests of the American people.

To Fight Mock Flood on the Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Army Engineers mobilized resources today for fighting a make-believe flood on the Arkansas River.

The "paper" operation is the Engineers' annual flood exercise. Plans for the exercise entail notifying various agencies which might be involved: obtaining labor for patrolling levees and working on them, and marshalling equipment.

The Arkansas River, according to the problem, is "bank full" throughout the Engineers' Little Rock district.

Col. A. M. Jacoby, district engineer, would take part in the exercise and only necessary business would be conducted today.

Koufas Wins 4th in Row, Misses Strikeout Record

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

SANDY Koufax defeated Philadelphia 6-2 Monday night with a spectacular strikeout performance that just missed the National League record.

It was the last day of May before the 23-year-old lefty gained his first victory. He put away his fourth in a row striking out 16.

That's a major league record for a night game, besting the old mark of 14 held by Johnny Vander Meer, Sam Jones, Bob Feller and Bob Turley. It was only one shy of Dizzy Dean's National League record, set back in 1933 with the St. Louis Cardinals, and but two short of the major league record set by Feller in 1938 with Cleveland.

Loser Jim Owens and reliever Humberto Robinson collected eight strikeouts between them, setting a modern NL record for two clubs and matching the modern major league record with a total of 24. The old NL record of 23 had been tied for the fourth time just last May 31 — when Koufax and reliever Danny McDevitt fanned 14 Cardinals.

The Dodgers moved past Pittsburgh into third place with the victory, three games behind first place Milwaukee. The Pirates were beaten 4-1 by San Francisco in the only other game scheduled as the second place Giants trimmed the Braves' lead to a single game again.

The New York Yankees rapped Kansas City 11-6 in the only American League game scheduled.

Although setting the one-game strikeout high in the majors this season, Koufax gave up 10 hits, one Harry Anderson's eighth home run, and didn't have a working lead until the Dodgers scored three in the fifth against Owens, now 4-5. Gil Hodges, who counted a first-inning run with a sacrifice fly, singled home a pair in the fifth.

Koufax's previous one game high for strikeouts was 14. That came in his first complete game in the majors, a two-hit shutout against Cincinnati in 1955. The Brooklyn-born bonus kid, who has fanned 64 in 61 innings this season, had two strikes on each of the first two men he faced in the ninth, Joe Koppe and Richie Ashburn, but both fled out. The final out came when Dave Philley singled and was nailed trying for a double.

The Giants made it with a four-run seventh inning that gave Ed Fisher, a knuckleballing right-hander, a victory in his major league debut. Fisher, 22 up from Phoenix with a 10-4 record, gave up only three hits in his seven innings.

Says Queen Well Dressed Woman

LONDON (AP)—American dress designer Don Loper said today that Queen Elizabeth II is a well-dressed woman but dresses too much her age.

"It's probably not her fault," he added. "It's the fault of those who dress her. Why, at times, she looks 33."

A reporter said that Her Majesty was 33.

"That's my point," he snapped. Asked about Princess Margaret's clothes, Loper replied: "The princess is not an easy one to dress, this is because of her size."

Loper said he had deep sympathy for the royal ladies and their clothes.

"Everyone's looking at then all the time and they look with a critical eye."

"They're on (on stage) from the minute they wake until they go to bed. And don't forget—because of their great activities—standing around at ceremonies and walking through factories and such—they've got to be comfortable, too."

Here with four Hollywood models and what he claimed was a million dollars worth of dresses, Loper has been invited to put on a show for tonight's glittering Anglo-American Ball.

Somebody asked how he thought Princess Grace Kelly of Monaco looks in her clothes.

"Her serene Highness looks dreadful now that those Paris dressmakers have got at her," he said.

"I used to make her look like a princess—now she looks like just plain Grace Kelly."

Asked if he didn't like French snobbery, Loper said: "Some of them are just a bunch of juvenile delinquents. It's taken one certain young Frenchman several years to learn that a woman's bosom is in front."

British Launch Large Liner

BIRKENHEAD, England (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth today launched Britain's biggest passenger liner in 31 years, the 38,000-ton Windsor Castle.

This steam turbine vessel, cruising at 23 knots, will cut two days off the 23-day Southampton-Cape Town run. She will carry 850 passengers and have massive refrigerators to carry perishables from South Africa.

GOING OUT — After almost half a trillion printings this face of former New York governor Dewitt Clinton soon will go out of circulation. Reason: Treasury Department has freed tobacco companies from placing on cigarette packages the blue tax stamp bearing his picture.

BIG BROTHER — A huge portrait of Nikolai Lenin rises above Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The Russian leader was addressing 15,000 persons in Lenin Stadium.

THREE-EYED — Penny Griffin, of Chicago, dons a monocle designed for feminine wear. Popular with dashing men-about-town in movies, the monocle is claimed to correct near-sightedness in one eye. Mostly, it serves as conversation piece.

LIGHT EATER — The pretty candles on Smudge's birthday cake hold little fascination for the 12-year-old cat. Like any feline, it's the cream he's after in Worcester Park, England.

Kathie had a hunch he would not want to show his face, and so she trained her flashlight on the dinghy.

None of her neighbors in the basin had made any response to her screams, and she could see now that there were no boats in her immediate vicinity showing lights. But apparently the intruder had been afraid screaming would attract attention. Kathie would scream like a banshee if she heard him near the boat again.

She sat holding the flashlight for what seemed hours. Her whole body ached with inaction and the tension of concentration with which she had been listening for any sound that would tell her where the intruder was.

And still he made no sound, and still his dinghy remained where it was, tied up alongside the Wikiwiki.

Just when she felt she had reached the end of her endurance, a new sound caught her attention. It was the now familiar plop plop of oars. Then she gathered her courage and flashed her light in the direction of the sound.

Her ears caught the increased tempo of the oars, even as her light found the lone rower. She drew a deep incredulous breath. "Alex!" she cried. "Oh, Alex!"

Never had the sight of him been dearer. "Turn off your light!" he called. "You're blinding me!"

She turned her flash downward, spotlighting the dinghy tied alongside. That would tell him everything. He pulled out the flashlight he had carried with him then, and swept the waters around him. Apparently seeing nothing, he came swiftly on.

When he boarded, Kathie threw herself into his arms. "Kathie!" he said, holding her tightly. "Don't tremble so, darling. Can you tell me what happened?" He led her below, and in the cabin she told him.

"And no one heard you scream?" Alex said, amazed.

"If they did, they paid no attention," she said.

For the first time, she heard Alex swear, softly but fervently. "The Merrills must be ashore. They're usually next door here, with two children and a cat."

"I wonder where my caller is?" Kathie said, shuddering.

"It's an easy swim to shore," Alex said, looking thoughtful. "On the other hand, he might have swum to one of the sailing sloops moored around here and be hiding out."

Alex left the cabin, and Kathie followed him up on deck, where she watched him go all around the boat's rail, shining his light down into the black water.

"If he's still in the basin, he's lying low," he reported when he came back.

One Killed, 3 Hurt in Car-truck Wreck

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — One man was killed and three others were seriously injured in a car-truck accident near here early today.

Police tentatively identified the dead man as Dalton Peathers, 23, of Memphis, who died in the wreck about three miles north of the Missouri-Arkansas State Line on Highway 61.

Reported in serious but not critical condition in a Blytheville hospital are Darnell Peathers, 19, and William Gentry, 21, both of Memphis, and John Glover, 23, of Somerville, Tenn.

The truck driver, who was not identified, apparently was not hurt.

"Alex, how did you know I needed you so desperately? You must have heard my prayers!"

"Let's go below," he said.

She went ahead of him down into the cabin. She sat on the edge of the bunk, and Alex sat across the narrow space from her on the opposite bunk.

"You got the deed?" she asked him.

"Yes, Kathie. It was in my post-office box. I was right about it, too. I think I know who murdered Phineas Redd 40 years ago."

"It wasn't Uncle Job?"

He hesitated a peculiar expression, or of divining his stange feeling. In a flash of intuition, o of divining his thoughts, she knew he had returned to the Wikiwiki because the knowledge he had gained made him fear for the safety.

She sensed his reluctance to tell her that.

"Who, Alex?"

Suddenly she realized he had not even heard her. He was listening, his head bent forward.

"Do you hear that?" he whispered, and she held the breath, listening.

Three were stealthy sounds, but she could not at once identify them—until there came the soft plop! plop of quiet oars.

"He's come back for the dinghy!" Alex cried, jumping up. "Here!" he said, thrusting something into her hands. She looked down, dumbfounded at a revolver.

"Don't let anybody aboard."

"But, Alex, where are you going?" she said miserably.

"I want that man," he was throwing the sharp whisper back over his shoulder as he moved on silent feet toward the stern of the boat.

"I want to take him to the police so they can make him tell who hired him. It may be the only way I can prove—" The rest of his whisper was lost as he lowered himself over the rail.

Kathie stood holding the gun, listening to the heavy beat of his heart and the sound of the oars, gradually receding.

She was alone again.

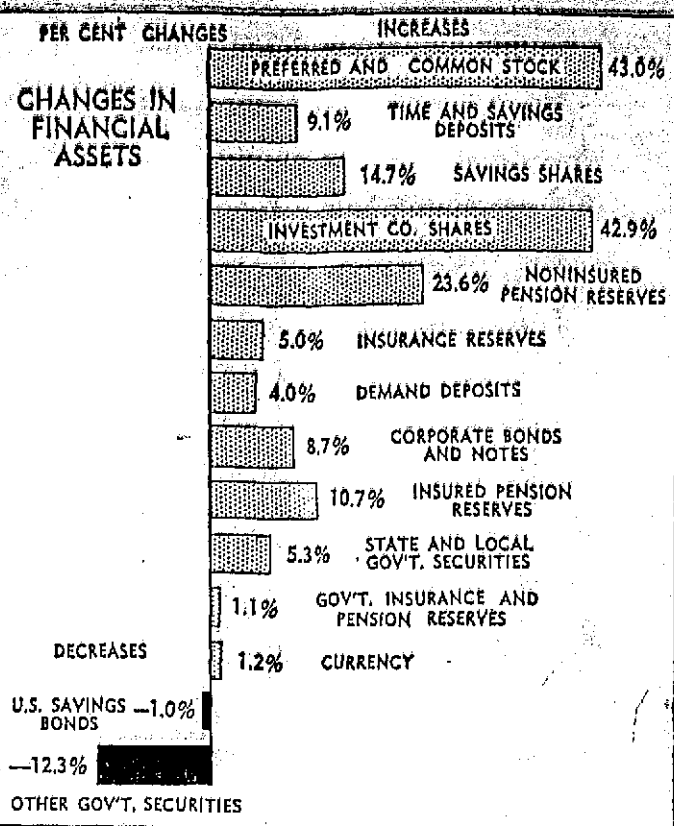

It was like reliving a nightmare. She went back into the cabin and sat down on her bunk. She listened to all the sounds she had heard before, sorting them out in her mind with the same fearful apprehension: the slap of the buoy rope, the creak of some sailing sloop's mast, the soft scrape of two distant hulls as the current floated them alongside.

And even the same star was shining faintly through the porthole.

It was all terribly familiar. The only difference was the gun she held in her nerveless fingers. And she knew, frightened, that she could never fire it.

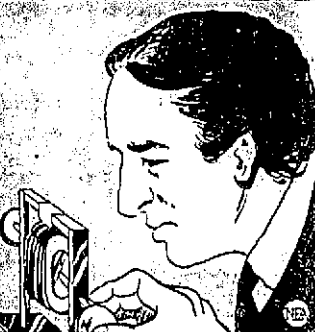

Then a new terror came to her mind: Alex! Alex was chasing a thief, a desperate man, perhaps even a murderer. And he was unarmed. He had left his gun with her.

Matter of FACT

The Italian government showed no interest in the work of inventor Guglielmo Marconi, who believed that electromagnetic waves could carry messages and in 1895 succeeded in sending signals for one mile. In 1896, he took out the first patent for wireless telegraphy in England. After his English demonstrations the Italian government invited Marconi to return.

Experts Tell Congress of U.S. Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon nuclear specialist told Congress today that countries beyond range of the bomb-dropping assault could survive the fallout hazard of atomic war.

Dr. Frank Shelton, technical director of the Defense Department's atomic support agency, made the statement at the outset of hearings on what an H-bomb attack would do to the United States.

Under prodding by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), Shelton said he was speaking of countries outside the area of intense local fallout—which could spread for hundreds of miles.

Anderson is a member of the Senate-House Atomic Radiation subcommittee, which is conducting the hearings to bring out the effects of nuclear war.

Shelton referred to the drift around the lobe of potentially lethal components of radioactive fallout unleashed by atomic explosives and said:

"One must consider that even for a very large scale war, the worldwide hazard to the countries not attacked would not be very important in terms of their survival."

Anderson said nearly all of Europe would be affected by an H-bomb attack west of the Iron Curtain, and suggested Belgium, France and West Germany, for instance, would find little comfort in Shelton's confusion.

Shelton agreed that countries within the range of local fallout, which embraces 80 per cent of the radioactive debris churned up by an explosion on the earth's surface, would be directly concerned.

The action came only two hours after four white youths were sentenced to life imprisonment at Tallahassee for the rape of a Negro college girl.
